EASTERN DATES TO JULY 17

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

The Evangelical Alliance to the Czar of Russia

LONDON July 17 —Following is the text of the address presented by the deputation of the American Evangelical Alliance to the Czar

To His Imperial Majesty Alexander II Emperor of all the Russias The undersigned citizens of the United States of America and delegates of the American Branch of Evangelical Alliance, which is an organization composed of Protestant christians of different denominations and countries, beg leave most respectfully to explain the circumstances which have permitted this appeal to Your Imperial Majesty

With increased facilities of communication the unity of the human family becomes more and more practicable. National acts of philanthropy exert direct influence beyond the boundaries of countries in which they originate His benevolent decrees of Your Imperial Majesty in reference to serfs, command the admiration of the friends of humanity in our own land and throughout the world and have had a favorable effect upon our own Government in bringing about shortly afterward the emancipation of four millions of slaves Confidence in the well known benevolence of Your Imperial Majesty emboldens us to express the profound sympathy felt by multitudes in our own country with a large number of your Imperial Majesty s subjects in the Baltic Provinces whose condition is graphically described in a report made to your Imperial Majesty by Count Trodinski in April 1864 and who by existing laws were prevented from openly returning to the faith of their Lutheran ancestors As Americans we venture to refer to our own national experience of the effects of religious liberty on the welfare of individuals and the stability of government By religious liberty we don't intend freedom from all authority much less than all opinions are equally good, but simply the right of every individual to believe and worship according to his own free conscience, responsible only to the authority of God as revealed in His holy words

In the United States religious denominations and forms of worship are equal before the law, which supporting none protects all The orthodox Greek Church, though with us the smallest as to numbers, enjoys in every respect the same liberty as the largest denominations, It may build churches propagate its opinions and exert its influence as freely in the United States as it has in the Empire of Russia This religious freedom not only relieves the State from agitation and cares but is the surest pledge of social order and national unity by promoting mutual respect and charity among different denominations, and by inaugurating a sense of security to all in the common enjoyment of their most sacred rights.

In view of these considerations we respectfully solicit in common with our brethren in Europe in behalf of your Imperial Majesty's subjects in the Baltic, that they may be permitted to worship God and educate their children according to the faith of their fathers and free preference of their own consciences Still further in behalf of American Missionaries, distinguished by intelligent piety and scholarship, who have labored long and successfully among the Armenians, Nestorians, and other Christians under Mahomedan rule in Turkey and on the borders of Russian dominions we beg leave to ask your Imperial Majesty that Christian Governments may be induced to grant with n the limits of its jurisdiction among all subjects not belonging to the orthodox Greek church liberty of worship and religious instruction including the circulation of the holy scriptures

In support of the memorial which is now earnestly and respectfully presented, we appeal to the genius of Christianity which, being spiritual in its nature requires moral influence and motives, to the sacred rights of conscience which demand outward expression; freedom of public worship by the spirit of civilization in which religious necessity seems to anticipate its universal prevalence, to the precepts of Jesus Christ whose kingdom is not of this world and who is the head of things belonging to the Church

With the sincere hope that your Imperial Majesty may have the high satisfaction of adding another to those great acts of Benevolence which have inspired the gratitude of mankind, and devoutly invoking upon your Imperial Majesty and upon all Russia the blessings of Almighty God by whom kings reign and Princes decree justice we subscribe ourselves with profound respect your Imperial Majesty s obedient servants,

William Adams, John Crosby Brown, William E Dodge Charles P McIlvaine, Nathan Bishop Salmon P Chase, Peter Parker Matthew Simpson, Cyrus W Field, Philip Scoff Secretary

Response of the Czar.

LONDON July 16 —Prince Gortschakoff has expressed to the deputation of the American Evangelical Alliance the sympathy of his august Master the Czar with the object of their prayers viz the advancement of the cause of religious liberty in Russia

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO July 18 —Some threats have been made against the Italians should they parade as they propose on Sunday next in celebration of the occupation of Rome as the Capital of the kingdom of Italy but the general feeling among the strongest Catholics is greatly against any interference with them and it is believed that it will not require even the assistance of the police to preserve the peace

Jerry Sullivan, who waylaid and savagely beat officer Englander, as he came out of the police court last week was to day fined only $120 The lightness of the sentence created much surprise

There is something in the reports of negotiations between the Central Pacific and California Pacific railroads more than is yet made public The belief in the final consolidation of the two roads is quite general to day

Rumors of the wholesale hanging of San Francisco roughs in the vicinity of Salt Lake are being circulated on the streets, but can be traced to no responsible source

The Subsidy Business in California

The Sacramento Union of the 11th gives a history of the subsidy business in California from which we extract as follows

The point at which opposition to subsidy was called for was when the railroad managers from being as they were intended to be, public servants and a benefit to the State, engaged in a struggle to make themselves masters of the people and to oppress their fellow citizens on whose bounty they had grown rich It was not the Examiner nor the Democracy that then and took to curb their avarice and expose their oppression It was the Sacramento Union In 1867 alone without the support of a single journal we set this anti subsidy ball in motion and it gives us pleasure to add that among all the prominent merchants of the State Newton Booth was about the first to give us good cheer, and that he has never once failed in sustaining our course For three years we received nothing but reproaches from the satanic press, and during most of that time the Examiner discouraged or derided us It does not look well for that journal now to turn upon Booth for his record of 1863, when the railroad was hardly a noticeable power in the State Little courage is required to attack a feeble enemy We do not claim much honor for having alone assaulted and overthrown a powerful one but whatever there is due is certainly due to us and to private citizens like Booth who have given us words of encouragement when all the journalistic power of the State was against us After we had made the conquest and not till then—and let us add, after a Democratic Legislature had signally disgraced itself as late as the year 1870, by voting the railway managers all they asked—enough to have bankrupted twenty counties—a Democratic Governor came in to share the honors of the victory With him came the Examiner and a number of other journals But Booth stood by us from the beginning of the war, in 1867

The Political Situation

The following candid survey of the political situation of the country, by Congressman Davies of Massachusetts, we extract from the New York Independent

We have now reached midway in the Administration of Gen Grant and it should be profitable as well as interesting to look out upon our reckonings and learn, if possible whither we have drifted and what is before us Indeed, whatever occasion there is for anxiety in regard to the one arises from uncertainty as to the extent of the other If there has been no drifting thus far in our course, then there can be little cause for anxiety as to the future, for no administration ever entered upon the discharge of its trusts more firmly grounded in popular confidence or more strongly girded in the rectitude of its purposes than the one which has as yet hardly finished the work of its first two years

And yet it has little else upon which to rest an appeal for a continuance of confidence beyond its ability to justify its past A new administration may be, often must be taken on trust, an old one can never be What it has done and has failed to do are always louder than promises and will ever fill the public ear, and shape the public judgment in utter indifference to proffered renewals of broken pledges, or any profusion of new ones. Ability to grapple with the untried future may be generously accorded to new men but is never to those already in harness So any attempt to judge of the future of this Administration must necessarily involve a survey of its past It by no means ends however, with such a survey The lessons of experience, the follies of opponents, the philosophy of antagonism itself, as well as the tide of events are all elements not to be lost sight of in making up any estimate of ultimate results

The Administration of Gen. Grant need not shrink from an honest and candid application of any or all these tests in the examination of its claims to a continuance of public confidence and support It cannot it is true insist that there have been no mistakes or that it has met every expectation of its friends Indeed, one great claim it has on the public regard never to be found among its opponents rests on the very fact that it searches with an unsparing vigilance for its own errors, and corrects them before they work any harm That body which has strength and courage enough to probe its own sores has also vitality enough to recuperate and restore any loss to the system arising from them The severest critics of the Republican party are in its own fold And so long as they remain there and, in good temper hold up its faults before its own eyes, they are an element of strength No greater mistake in political ethics ever took possession of men or party than that concealment of errors and follies was necessary to success You can as easily and as safely cover up a cancer or hide the consumption

Chronic grumblers and sore heads do not belong to the class of healthy critics here alluded to They are as harmless as they are noisy But that antagonism which is impelled by conviction and not by disappointment or malice wrestles with the policy of the Administration and opposes its measures for causes, is in so doing as sure to give it strength and power as training does the athlete, or as lifting swells the muscle All these the Administration of President Grant has successfully encountered and is to-day, because of them as much as anything, stronger in the confidence of the people than at any other period since its commencement

In the matter of public expenditures payment of the public debt tariff reform, annexation of Santo Domingo, and the general foreign policy of the Government the Administration has met with severer criticism and aroused greater debate within than outside of its own ranks And yet, in all these the result has been a more cordial support in the end than would otherwise have been attained The reason is obvious Those at the head of affairs are neither pig headed, self willed, nor corrupt, and have, therefore, been ready to correct errors when pointed out and modify measures or change policies when the necessity has been made apparent, as well as to adhere the more closely to that line of conduct which withstands unshaken, whatever assaults may be made upon it This Administration can unhesitatingly point to the work it has already accomplished in fulfilment of the pledges upon which it came into power It has paid in these two years more than $200,000,000 of the public debt which it undertook to put upon the footing of ultimate extinction One twelfth of the whole has thus in the first two years of this Administration been extinguished and thereby in interest alone $12 000 000 of the annual burdens have been lifted from the shoulders of the people And at the same time $83 000,000 more of those burdens have been removed by the repeal of internal taxes and foreign imposts, in the process of equalization of the public burden, first undertaken in earnest when General Grant assumed direction of public affairs All this reduction has been more than compensated in the aggregate receipts of the public treasury by a more faithful and efficient collection of the remaining revenue, and by the growth of every industry under healthy legislation and wise administration, so that the actual receipts and estimates for the present fiscal year show that there will be at its close $100 000 000 surplus over all expenditures, to be applied to a still further diminution of the public debt If therefore there should be no change of policy and no financial disaster the four years of this administration will close with a constant reduction of taxation and yet a yearly extinguishment of $100 000 000 of the public debt—in all, one sixth part of the entire indebtedness of the nation There is no parallel to this in the financial history of any other people

In the matter of public expenditures this Administration has been equally fortunate in commanding the public confidence In addition to a reduction of $20 000,000 during its first year it has by general law the present year covered into the Treasury and passed to the general fund more than twice that sum which stood in unexpended balances to the credit of the several bureaus, and hitherto available at any moment for expenditure keeping at the same time the aggregate of appropriations as low as that of the first year

In tariff reform a good work has been begun by the addition of more than fifty articles to the free list, and more intelligent adjustment of duties, opening the way for a greater work during the next two years in bringing raw materials and labor and consumption into such harmony that they shall, each in its own field, command the markets of the country

The provision for funding on long time of more than one half of the entire public debt at a reduced rate of interest averaging less than five per cent and thereby saving, when fully carried out, in the matter of interest alone $15 000 000 annually—now so far advanced as to insure success—is one among the many measures of this Administration, both for relief from public burdens and for insuring the ultimate extinction of the public debt to which its friends may point with confidence and pride

In matters of reconstruction also—the most difficult of all the tasks inherited by this Administration—it has not been found wanting Never since the fall of the States till now have they all been restored to their proper relations to the Union, and been fully represented in both houses of Congress And never since they rebelled anew under Andrew Johnson till now have they felt brought home to each person the restraining power of law The Ku Klux, originating in the license and encouragement of the last Administration, encounters in this the penalties of its crimes

No friend of the present Administration need, therefore, hesitate for a moment in putting its claim for a continuance of public confidence upon its past record, for no one that has preceded it has in two short years accomplished so much worthy of commendation and support, and in so little has come short of its own promises and the public expectation

Nor is there less of encouragement in the field of labor into which it now enters for the two years that remain It has already secured during the entire period an assured majority in both houses of Congress large enough for their own health, and for its support in every measure worthy of success—an indication of abiding confidence not accorded to any of its predecessors for more than a generation, except to that of Mr Lincoln in the midst of the war Adhering strictly to the Inaugural, the strongest convictions of the Executive are surrendered to the will of the people expressed through Congress, that ultimate appeal on all questions that concern the Republic Thus Santo Domingo will fail to distract or divide, for to the people this problem has been referred for solution In like manner "Revenue Reform," will come ultimately to be the resultant of seemingly discordant and conflicting views of industrial and financial policy, to which Pennsylvania, Illinois, and New England will with alacrity adopt both theory and practice

The spring elections have also given strength to the Administration, and brought weakness and confusion to its enemies The defeat in New Hampshire, no less than the triumph in Connecticut, bore this double fruit Warned in season by the one to take heed as to its footsteps, the Republican party girded up its loins for a fierce struggle and a signal victory in the other while their opponents, elated by unexpected success in New Hampshire threw off disguise, and developed their true character in bloody outbreaks at the South and unblushing defense of Ku Klux outrages at the North, Thus did the enormities which were born of their first success render another impossible and achieved for them an overwhelming defeat One of the ablest and most candid of the Democrats in the National Councils remarked, on the morning the telegraph announced the result in Connecticut, that "the New Hampshire victory had brought every copperhead in the party to the surface and had well nigh worked their ruin, and another such in Connecticut would have completed it

Thus a candid review of the record of this Administration during the first two years of its term as well as an unbiased examination of its unfinished work and survey of the field before it, leaves no occasion for doubt or distrust, much less does it furnish excuse for withdrawal of support No earnest Republican, however he may criticise, and whatever may be his personal disappointments can find either in the past of this Republican administration its present attitude toward the great questions of the day or in the path or prospect opening before it justification for turning his face from it and this without for one moment putting into the scale the fearful alternative involved When that shall come to be weighed, also, all cavil is at once silenced and all hesitancy must disappear

These views are submitted without regard to the personnel of the present administration The cause represented by the men at the head of public affairs is infinitely above the men themselves, and its importance as well as the duty of all true and earnest workers for advancing civilization toward it can and ought to be considered independently of personal aspirations or fortunes However these may rise or sink the banner must and will be ever borne aloft

Of "Gen" McCook the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio (who got his title by acting as Colonel Commissary) the Chicago Republican says He contributed three brothers and a father to the services of his country in the trying days of the late war, and it is to be presumed that, if necessary, like Artemus Ward, he would have sent every one of his wife's relatives to the field of glory, rather than to have seen the old flag undefended

Fearful Scenes at the Riot

The San Francisco Bulletin's dispatches give the following account of some of the scenes at the New York riot

No regard was paid to the wounded and dying for several minutes The terrified citizens were afraid to venture out of the houses None of those escorting the Orangemen could advance beyond the lines to give relief on account of the danger that other shots would be fired by the infuriated mob, and that the militia would renew their wild volleys The situation at the crossing of Twenty fourth street, where the writer stood was terrible Before the eyes of all there lay eleven bodies —two or three killed ... they had fallen dead The ... a dead man A man with a fearful wound in the head, which covered his face with blood, writhed in agony for some moments and then slowly crept to the ... and feebly strove to raise him ... as he did so the full extent of his ... injuries An aged workman evidently an Irishman, had received a shot in the arm and sat down on the step and desperately ... the troops in the midst of the firing ... holding his bleeding arm extended before him He remained until relief came fixedly staring at the Orangemen. A lad crouched against a cart wheel, just beyond the corner of Twenty fourth street, appeared to have been hurt the women appeared at the windows above making signs of anguish and bewilderment looking alternately down ... the bodies and then at the troops ... Presently one and then another ... the victims stole out and touched the ... to see if they were still alive but soon hastened with in One young Irishman however ... and walked to and fro wringing his hands and making pitiless cries of grief ... from time to time he clenched his fist and seemed to be making desperate resolves of vengeance and then he would step to look at another of the bodies The surgeon of one of the regiments came with commendable promptitude to attend to the wounded At last, when the mob had been driven far back on the side streets the work of moving the dead and wounded began As the column remained at a halt the riot was suppressed by this single volley The most drunken and desperate of the mob could not be induced to resume the fight

A pleasant old gentleman of Teutonic antecedents committed hari kari on a Mississippi steamboat recently, and an intelligent Arkansas jury returned a verdict of suicide in the first degree

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 19, 1871.

A Political Ethnologist.

The wise man of the Herald essays to talk about distinctions of race, considered in relation to the science of government. With what success he has met the problem may be judged from the fact that the only race distinctions which he knows are those of color. His essay is an attempt to consider and refute certain propositions stated by us in a recent article. In that article, speaking of the recent [illegible] of the Paris Commune, between which and ourselves a Fourth of July orator had told us there was nothing but "our Constitution and Common Schools," we said: "Our security lies farther back. It is in the blood. We are not Celts or Gauls." To this the Herald flippantly replies:

> We will agree with our cotemporary that our security is in the blood, but it is the blood of the Caucasian race, from which the Teuton and Gaul [illegible] spring. Does our cotemporary propose to make further discrimination? Can he do so with safety? * * * * * When it is declared that our security is in the blood—the Caucasian blood, which permeates all branches of the parent stock, Saxon, Nor[illegible], Celtic, Danish, Gallic and numberless other offshoots—all recognize a truth attested by the history of past centuries; but when an invidious discrimination is attempted between the different branches of this race, now happily almost entirely blended in the commingling of the blood, such attempt is hypocritical, dogmatical and absurd, and is easily confuted, as we have shown by events not so far back but that they can yet be substantiated by living testimony.

This betrays a most remarkable ignorance of the lessons of history. The grouping of all the races mentioned, under the general term "Caucasian," is, for the purpose before us, the most absurd imaginable. Such a classification is about as useful in a discussion of the capacity of different peoples for maintaining stable government, and their progress in governmental science, as the primary classification of the animal kingdom into vertebrates, radiates, articulates and mollusks, would be for the same purpose. For there are those of the white race,—whole peoples, who do not possess the deep moral qualities necessary for the foundation of enduring governments. History, if it teaches anything, teaches this as a leading fact. They who make no difference between the Teuton and the Gaul in this respect, have never opened their eyes upon the inner history of the greatest events of this century and preceding ones. The Herald says they are alike "of Caucasian blood," and it can make no other discrimination. That is because its view is of the most superficial.

The question is asked whether we can make any other discrimination. We need not attempt to do so, every page of history is luminous with it. A writer of admitted authority groups together the leading characteristics of the race which the Herald cannot discriminate between. One of them,—we quote his words,—is "a race, according to the oldest authorities, brave, quick to quarrel, vain and fond of display, with little pertinacity, but capable of extraordinary efforts, liable to excessive discouragement and unreasonable elation, never attached, like the Teuton, to the soil, but preferring the associated life of large towns, intelligent and apt, but seeking wealth by plunder rather than by slow gains, a people who fill the history of the past with the glory of their conquests, but who found no permanent state and who are never willing to submit long to their own constituted authorities." These qualities are in the blood, and the delineation just quoted will illustrate what we mean when we say that our security dates back of our constitution; that in the main we are descended from a different race; in short that we are not Celts or Gauls.

The opposite of this we quote still from the same authority,—it is the Teutonic character, which always supported self-government. From this family has come most of the energy and civilization of modern Europe, and the Teutonic tribes have formed the most powerful element in the leading nations of Europe and America. They have given the institutions of Germany, of England and America permanence and stability; they have wrought out the problems of individual liberty and of strong government together. In nearly all modern nations there is a mingling of many streams of race; but those in which the main current is Teutonic have been preserved against despotism on the one hand and an excess of liberty, or anarchy and revolution on the other. These are among the greatest and most impressive facts of history, but it seems that the Herald cannot "discriminate" in respect to them.

The "discrimination" which it is unable to make is the key to centuries of turmoil in Europe, to the most bloody and desolating of her wars; to the Great Revolution in France, and to the present woe and humiliation of that nation. The Herald virtually confesses that it has no knowledge of the causes which, at the beginning of the present century, led to the overthrow of constituted government in France; which precipitated that people in a conquering host upon Europe; which aroused England and Germany to combat the colossal power of Napoleon, and which ended at last in a victory for order and for established governments. It is a great misfortune that that paper is able to read history to no better purpose. Of course, also, it is unable to see that these events, growing out of race characteristics, have produced a powerful effect in America. Thomas Jefferson was in France at the time of that prodigious fermentation with which the Great Revolution began, and he imbibed, brought back with him, and introduced here, principles which directly produced our great rebellion, and came near reducing the United States to the unhappy condition of France, a country where authority is not respected, where those moral qualities in a people which are required for the establishment of enduring political foundations are wanting, and where no government can stand. The people of the United States rejected these false principles. In the main they are of a different blood, and in this fact our country finds its greatest security. The whole of the Caucasian race has not yet proved itself fit for self-government, for the maintenance of liberty and for the foundation of stable and enduring governments. He who cannot "discriminate" between different portions of the white race in this particular and the successes they have achieved has yet to go back to the beginning of political knowledge.

A report has been started that Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania purposes to be a candidate for Vice President next year. The Harrisburg Telegraph, at his special request, positively denies the truth of the statement. It says Mr. Cameron will under no circumstances be a candidate. He, however, expresses himself positively in favor of the renomination of Gen. Grant for President.

PACIFIC COAST DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco Politics.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Parties representing various railroads are in consultation this evening at Oakland, and the impression is very strong that a consolidation of all roads in the Pacific States into one monster combination is imminent.

This afternoon, Thomas Mannohan, employed in the planing mills of Swan & Dunbar, Spear street, fell through the elevator, breaking his collar bone and cutting his head, and is suffering from internal injuries of a very serious character. He is now lying in a critical condition.

The reaction in the stock market this afternoon was immense; Hale & Norcross opening at 100 and closing at 152, the whole list sharing more or less in the excitement.

A San Franciscan who insists on his name not being made public, has presented the Mercantile Library with a picture by "Dairo" representing "Andromache Parting from her Son," purchased in Paris at a cost of forty-three thousand francs, or $8,300.

A dispatch received here to-day, announces the coming of a party of 250 Indiana railroad men by the Pacific railroad, who will arrive to-morrow night.

The police are investigating facts connected with an alleged assault upon Mrs. Higby, better known as a light literature writer under the soubriquet of "Lisle Luster," last night. Her story is that coming down from the room of Mrs. Lane, mother of Mrs. Fair, 230 Kearny street, she met a man on the stairway who crowded her against the wall and knocked her down by a blow which rendered her insensible. Mrs. Lane says she found her insensible in the stairway with a broken stair rod beside her, and had her taken to Dr. Blakely's office. She has no wounds indicating the receipt of a severe blow. She claims that the assault was made by enemies of Mrs. Fair, of whom she is an intimate friend, out of spite for her procuring testimony for the defense. This looks sensational, and there are grave doubts as to some parts of the story.

Arrived, steamer Prince Alfred, Victoria.

This evening the Democratic Committee, Friedlander wing are in secret session. It is reported they have ordered primaries under the Porter election law for the 25th inst.

In the Democratic County Committee S. M. Wilson on behalf of Citizens' Committee "not the Friedlander wing," reported a plan for the selection of delegates to the nominating Convention, saying eight gentlemen had been appointed by citizens to call upon the County Committee and request the appointment of a like number by that organization to act as committee of conference. The Committee was so appointed and will meet to-morrow night. The County Committee will meet Thursday evening. This action will doubtless result in a union of the citizens and the Democratic County Committee, but the breach between them and the Friedlander wing appears irreconcilable.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

PETALUMA, July 18.—The corner stone of the new Odd Fellow's building was laid here to-day with appropriate ceremonies. The members of the Grand Lodge of the State of California were in attendance. An elegant address was delivered by Charles N. Fox, Esq., of San Francisco, Past Grand Master.

SAN ANDREAS, Cal., July 18.—The Democratic County Convention to-day nominated the following ticket: Senate—W. Lewis; Assembly—L. M. Schrack, H. Meston, J. L. Gibson; Sheriff—B. K. Thorne; Clerk—B. F. Hawes; Treasurer—John Gallagher.

VIRGINIA, July 18.—A heavy thunder storm occurred here this afternoon, beginning at 4½ o'clock and lasting two hours. Lightning entered the Western Union Telegraph office, burning off a number of the wires and slightly damaging three instruments, but only interrupting business during the continuance of the storm.

The Virginia and Gold Hill Water Company are completing their surveys with the view of bringing in a full supply of water from some of the fine streams emptying into Lake Tahoe. The distance, as per survey, is about fifty miles, and the water is to be conducted by flume and iron pipes.

NEVADA.

RENO, July 18.—A heavy rain storm accompanied by thunder and lightning, passed over the city this afternoon.

The Virginia and Truckee railroad have about 400 yards of track laid, and the prospects are the road will be rapidly pushed to completion.

The New York Press on the Riot.

On the morning succeeding the riot most of the leading New York papers had scorchingly severe articles on Mayor Hall. The Times said:

> It is inconceivable how such a man as Hall can presume to call himself Mayor of the city after his shameful conduct in this affair. Undoubtedly he was the author of General Order No. 578. Other circumstances have come to light which commit him still more closely with the sinister designs of the rioters. Here we have Oakey Hall in open alliance with the tools of the ultra-Irish party, playing into their hands and supporting them out of the city treasury. Is such a man as this fit to be the Mayor of the Empire City? His order alone is sufficient to disgrace him forever. He has proved himself a coward and a traitor to the public. If he has a spark of decency left in him he will resign. In that way only can he atone for the great wrong of which he has been guilty; in that way only can he assist his Tammany confederates out of their disgrace. It will be hard for him to take his fingers out of the public pocket, but he ought to do it, and that instantly; for he will never dare to show his face again before a community he has outraged, insulted and betrayed. The blood of the innocent slaughtered yesterday rests upon the head of the men who, up to the last moment, confined their repressive measures to the party which was threatened, and not only tolerated but encouraged the murderous preparations of the aggressors. Attempts will doubtless be made to divert public attention from this vital fact. It cannot, therefore, be too strongly stated or too steadfastly remembered against the contemptible triflers who shrunk from facing the fury of the mob whom they had so successfully pampered in the past as to refuse to face the alternative of losing their support in the future. The public recognize the real authors of yesterday's disturbance, and their punishment will be certain, though it cannot be immediate.

The Tribune bitterly denounces Gov. Hoffman for not acting with more promptness. It said:

> The blood of the 100 and more men, women and children yesterday needlessly killed or wounded in the chief city of this hemisphere, rests upon the head of one or two men, if not on the heads of both. We brush Kelso, the poltroon tool aside, as of not the slightest consequence. We are dealing with principals only. Half of the city of New York surrendered to the mob. He forced his creature at the police headquarters to make proclamation of the fact and invited yesterday's work. John T. Hoffman, Governor of New York, made no public effort to spare the city from mob rule until the morning of the riot. The guilt of Mayor Hall is undeniable and not denied. That of Governor Hoffman is equally clear, unless he can convince the people, whose trust he seems to have betrayed, that he acted with all the vigor he could command the moment he knew the danger. Write on the tombstones of yesterday's victims: "Murdered by the criminal management of Mayor A. Oakey Hall." Make rigid inquisition of blood before admitting that the name of Governor John T. Hoffman shall not be added to this inscription. Now we have made careful inquiry into this matter, and learn that Governor Hoffman was in the city on Monday, and was fully informed then as to the actual condition of affairs with reference to the proposed procession, for he sent an officer of his staff to confer with the Mayor on the subject at the City Hall. Yet it was not until after midnight on Wednesday morning that he took any action; after Governor Randolph, the Democratic Chief Magistrate of New Jersey had set him a noble example of manliness; after the respectable population of New York had risen in angry protest; after the storm of indignation had burst forth, which no Governor could possibly face, he published his proclamation—not on Tuesday, when it was dated, but on Wednesday morning, at such an hour that most of the morning papers were unable to make any comments on it, and the Orangemen, as he doubtless hoped, would be unable to turn to advantage. Had he published it on Monday, the Governor's proclamation would have insured a quiet parade and saved the awful flow of blood we have this morning to report. Published on Wednesday, it was a confession of weakness, an encouragement to the enemy. Upon Governor Hoffman's head is the guilt of yesterday's massacre, because he truckled to the mob and waited to be forced by public opinion into the performance of his sworn duty. Upon his head is equal guilt with the infamous plotter of surrender to the mob, unless he can prove he was deceived by the plotter on Monday's conference.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 19, 1871.

CITY.

[illegible] Items.—From our Astoria correspondent under date, Astoria, July 17, 1871:

The Military Department has let a contract for a wharf at the cozy little bay at Cape Disappointment. The wharf will be completed this [illegible].

The United States Lighthouse authorities are to build a new and commodious dwelling for the light keeper at the same point. The same is to cost about $10,000. A part of the material for building is on the bark Whistler, on the way from San Francisco.

The Government wharf at Fort Stevens has been enlarged this summer, and is now the largest wharf in the State.

Mr. Holman will soon have to suspend work on the Custom House, having almost expended the diminutive sum appropriated by last Congress. It may be economy for Government to do a job piece meal, but business men never adopt that plan. What Solomon is it that runs this three [illegible] arrangement?

Arrigoni kept hotel in Portland, some one remarked that he fed his guests chiefly on [illegible] and napkin." Here, the reverse of that is mostly true. He has but one waiter to attend the wants of scores of hungry mouths. Consequently your patience is quite exhausted before you get anything to eat, and when you do get it, it is cold. His table is bountifully supplied, but I would suggest a change of cooks, and the employment of at least two more good table waiters.

[illegible] Divorce Case.—On Monday morning [illegible] ended the case of Nicholas Grogovich, who came from California in search of a di[illegible] wife who had spirited away a child, the custody of whom the divorcing court had decreed to him. It appears the woman had got possession and cleared out for this city. Gregovich got into trouble through an attempt to take the child by force and without legal process. To get out of that, he petitioned Judge Upton for a writ of habeas corpus, but the petition was, on Monday, dismissed. Gregovich then petitioned Judge Deady, of the U. S. District Court, and the matter was heard before him yesterday. Gregovich, presenting the proper proofs, was awarded the custody of the child. The delivery of the child to the father occasioned a scene rarely witnessed in our courts. The woman clung to the child, and the delivery to the father was only effected by the authority of the U. S. Marshal, [illegible]—and child both crying and "taking on" frantically. It was a scene to move [illegible] of the most obdurate and passionless of spectators.

New Roadway.—Yesterday the steamer [illegible] brought down from the Oregon City mills, heavy fir timbers which, we learn, are to be used in the construction of a roadway at the foot of [illegible], leading from Front street down to the floor of the P. T. Co's wharf. Hitherto [illegible] has received and discharged freight [illegible] of Couch and Flanders' wharf and the B [illegible] roadway. They have now, however, resolved to build a roadway on A street which will be a very great convenience, not only to them, but to the traveling public, as it will save the [illegible] over the full two sides of a block, in [illegible] their wharf from up town. Foot passengers to and from the dock will especially [illegible] this improvement. The new roadway [illegible] twelve feet wide, leaving eighteen feet of roadway leading to the upper story of [illegible] house. The work is to be commenced [illegible].

Steamer Wrecked.—The O. S. N. Co. has [illegible] news of the sinking and probable loss of the Owyhee, their boat plying on the Columbia and Snake rivers from Wallula to Lewiston. The boat struck a sunken rock, on Monday afternoon, and now lies stern down, only her [illegible] out of water. She had at the time of [illegible], a cargo of merchandise for Lewiston, and several passengers for various points on [illegible]. The passengers were all rescued, and the cargo was saved, through the assistance of a ferry boat, plying near by. The boat was in charge of Captain Stump, an experienced [illegible] man and pilot. The passengers who left [illegible] day morning last, for the upper Columbia, were on board of her. This mishap probably [illegible] steamboating season, so far as the Snake is concerned.

Church Services at the Sea-side.—Bishop [illegible] officiated in Grace Church, Astoria, on [illegible] the 16th, morning and evening, and ad[illegible] the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. [illegible] gave notice that the Bishop would [illegible] service at Clatsop on Sunday the 23d; at [illegible] Bay on the 30th; and at Ft. Stevens [illegible] first Sunday in August. Week night services will also be held by the Bishop at Cape Disappointment and Cementville.

[illegible] Resort.—While people are [illegible] the city for the seaside, [illegible] rest from labor, and reinvigorated health, there are many, also, as we learn, going to the [illegible] Springs of Clackamas county. Mr. Gaines, the present lessee of the hotel at that place came to this city yesterday, and he informs us that his house is constantly full, while many are [illegible] out.

Resignation and Appointment.—Mr. J. H. [illegible], who has a more decided talent for running a sawmill than the police establishment of a [illegible], [illegible] the office of Police Commissioner [illegible] ago, and we learn that the Governor [illegible] in his place Mr. John A. Bian[illegible]. "How is that for high," from the Odd Fellows' stand-point?

"Vills."—When the bark Goodell arrived, everybody was puzzled to know what was meant by "vills," an article mentioned in her manifest. [illegible] day, the matter was explained—the vills [illegible] out in the shape of large square, slate[illegible] bricks, made evidently for garden and [illegible] pavements.

Fire Alarm.—The department was called out [illegible] day forenoon by a fire alarm from a house occupied by Mr. Wolf on Sixth street. A few [illegible] of water, however, quenched the fire (in the roof next to a flue) before the engines got into [illegible].

New Trial.—The motion for a new trial in the case of J. L. Cummings, convicted of obstructing the U. S. mails, will be heard in the U. S. District Court to-day.

In Salem.—J. J. Smith, sentenced to the penitentiary for one year, for selling liquor to the Indians, was sent to Salem Monday afternoon.

Campmeeting.—A Methodist campmeeting will [illegible] next Friday at the Clackamas Soda Springs.

PERSONAL.

Gov. Woods has hardly warmed his Gubernatorial seat in Utah, before a row between the Mormon dignitaries and the judiciary, took him off to Washington, where he arrived about the 20th [illegible].

[illegible] Maynard and Bingham and Judge Miller, accompanied by Senator Corbett and [illegible] gentlemen and ladies of this city, [illegible] up on the O. & C. Railroad on Monday, returning yesterday.

The Washington correspondent of the State [illegible] says: It is stated that about the 1st of [illegible] a party of newspaper men will leave St. Paul, Minn., for a trip overland along the route of the Northern Pacific Railroad to Oregon and Washington Territory. Among the party are [illegible], of the Chicago Tribune, who has twice visited Oregon before with the "Colfax party;" Whitelaw Reid, managing editor of the New York Tribune; Mr. Hurlburt, of the World; H. J. Raymond, Jr., of the Times; Mr. Hazard, of the Independent and Harper's Magazine; and one of the editors of the Evening Post. They are to have a military escort.

A letter from R. M. Swain, Napa, Cal., states that a man named Geo. W. Johnston, formerly of Portland, Oregon, but originally from Albany, N. It is said that he had relatives (probably a sister) in this city, who can obtain further information by addressing G. S. Bur[illegible], Yountville, Napa county, Cal.

It is said that the reception which Col. Kelly is meeting among the Oregon Democracy, since his announcement by the Herald that he has "deserted," is very cold. THE TUALATIN-OSWEGO CANAL.

THE EXTENT OF THE ENTERPRISE—BREAKING OF GROUND—AN IMMENSE WATER-POWER TO BE OBTAINED.

Yesterday morning, by invitation of the President of the Tualatin River Navigation and Manufacturing Co., ex-Governor George L. Curry, we accompanied him and several gentlemen connected with the company to Oswego, thence by way of Oswego Lake and the old wooden-track railway to the Colfax landing on the bank of the Tualatin. The object of the trip was to break ground for the canal which the company is about to dig, and by which the Tualatin river is to be drained of a portion of its water to supply motive power at Oswego. The lake has its outlet at Oswego, the foot of the lake being a little more than an eighth of a mile from the west bank of the Wallamet, by way of the outlet stream. The latter falls near the foot of the lake and within a distance of three or four hundred feet, about ninety feet over basaltic rocks, to the level of the Wallamet. This fall, when the supply of water discharging from the lake shall be increased as contemplated, will afford a series of magnificent water-powers, in many essential respects of unequalled conveniences and advantages. The lake extends from this fall westward toward the Tualatin river about two and three quarter miles. The rest of the intervening distance—between the head of the lake and Colfax on the Tualatin—is a low swale, through which runs a small stream, having its source within 780 feet of the bank of the Tualatin, and which falls into Oswego Lake at its head. The enterprise inaugurated yesterday contemplates the uniting of the waters of the river and lake by a canal—a mere means of water supply at first, but eventually to be cut wide and deep enough to admit the passage of the small steamers which the company now have in the river and the lake.

THE CANAL.

The surveys of the Co's civil engineer show that the Tualatin river at Colfax is 22 feet higher than the water in the lake. The highest ground—measured from the level of the river—between the river and the lake, is only thirteen feet. It is proposed to cut the canal about four feet wide on the bottom and two feet deeper than the present surface of the water in the river. Immediately on the bank, this cut will be fourteen feet deep. At the distance of about 300 feet from the river occurs the deepest cut, 15 feet. Three or four hundred feet further on toward the lake, the cut will be only eight or nine feet and then it grows rapidly less. The extreme length of the cut necessary to be made to run four feet of water through the canal to the lake, is only one mile and one-third. A much shorter distance will suffice to run water of one or two feet in depth; but the company proposes to go, at first, to the depth necessary to make the canal navigable for boats when the whole scheme shall have been accomplished. At the head of the canal, say within two or three hundred feet of the river, a break water or head gate will be put in, to be used as a regulator of the supply of water. Somewhere between this and the lake a single lock will be constructed, to aid in the passage of boats. It is believed by the engineer and others who have examined the ground, that when water shall be once turned freely through the canal with the fall of 22 feet, the current will very soon complete all the excavations necessary to allow the passage of boats.

DAM AT THE FOOT OF THE LAKE.

It might be supposed that such a current as will be given by a fall of nearly 16 feet to the mile would destroy the possibilities of navigation and endanger the entire diversion of the river from its own channel to the Oswego Lake. But it is a part of the whole scheme to raise a dam across the outlet stream at the foot of the lake at least 16 or 20 feet high. This can be done at comparatively small cost, as the outlet is narrow, with solid rock bottom and sides. The dam when closed will back the water of the lake nearly to the level of the Tualatin river; and by opening or closing its waste gates, the current of the canal can be regulated at pleasure. The head-gate and lock can also be used for the same purpose. It will thus be seen that the immense water power will be at all times, under perfect easy control.

BREAKING GROUND.

The company having rested themselves on board the steamer Onward after a smart walk from the lake along the proposed line to the river, proceeded to "break ground." The President stated that the company was organized March 23d, 1869, and then gave some details of its subsequent history—what it had done, and what it was now able and about to do; touched upon the importance of the enterprise not only to the Company, but as it might possibly affect many public interests in the future, by opening a new channel of transportation; and concluded by stating the principal physical facts connected with the enterprise, and then threw the traditional few spade fulls of dirt from the middle of the proposed line of canal. He was followed in this exercise by Captain Joseph Kellogg, the OREGONIAN Reporter, Mr. T. Patterson of the Herald, Mr. Lewis Love, Mr. Jonathan Jackson, and Mr. W. S. Failing, the latter the Secretary of the Company. The excursionists having seen the work begun, started for home, by way of Oswego, and by steamer Senator, for Portland.

The work will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible to completion, it being the intention of the company to have the dam built, the canal dug, and all other necessary work performed during the season of low water in the river and lake.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE WORK.

The canal when completed, will open a line of water communication with the interior westward for a distance of some sixty miles, affording excellent facilities to the people of Yamhill and Washington counties, adjacent thereto, for the transportation of their surplus products to the Portland markets. The company has a steamboat on the Lake, and also one on the Tualatin, and will be ready to supply the wants of the community in that locality in the matter of transportation. Apart from the business of navigation, the improvement now undertaken will furnish an abundant and unfailing water power for the manufacturing operations of the Company at Oswego, where they own a tract of two hundred acres of land including the town of Oswego. The Company's saw mill at that point will commence running next week in the manufacture of lumber, for which the timber lands of the Tualatin will afford an almost endless supply for all the most desirable varieties. The subjoined extracts from the report of the Engineer on the work will give a fair idea of the importance and value of the enterprise:

"Although not especially instructed to do so, I presume that it will not be inappropriate or unacceptable if I offer some estimates and suggestions relative to the available value of the proposed improvements when fully completed. At this time there cannot be any particular computation of their cash value as a means of transportation. But when it is considered that they will render accessible to the market afforded by the city of Portland, very large bodies of timber, consisting of all the varieties common to the country, hitherto unavailable, and as yet scarcely touched by the woodman's axe; that they will extend water carriage of such facility as to preclude all competition by rail in moving heavy products, directly to the center of one of the largest and most productive sections of the Wallamet valley; that the first cost of the works will be a comparatively insignificant sum, and that when once completed they can be maintained indefinitely by a very small outlay for attendance or repairs, the profits for this source alone must eventually become large. With regard to the motive power which they will develop, we may reach some more definite conclusions. * * * There may be drawn from the Tualatin river, at the lowest stage, a volume of water equal to the full capacity of the canal, at a rate of half a mile an hour. This would yield at Oswego a discharge of seventy-three cubic feet of water every second, with an average of one hundred feet through the entire year. * * * This will produce nominally eight hundred and thirty-three horse powers. * * * This, when compared with an equivalent of power which might be maintained through the agency of steam with which it would come directly in competition under circumstances equally advantageous for the purposes of manufacture, at a low estimate would be worth two hundred dollars each day. Allowing three hundred working days in each year, it would produce an annual income of sixty thousand dollars at ten per cent. per annum. * * * For several years it would hold superior advantages in the manufacture of lumber for the Portland market. For all time to come it would hold unrivaled advantages in the manufacture of flour from the wheat grown in the extensive region of country which must unavoidably become tributary to the Oswego canal, while it would remain fully equal in point of location with any other place in the general manufacture of that staple article grown in other parts of the Wallamet valley. What I have stated concerning wheat, will apply with nearly the same appropriateness to the wool product. Then it will be in the immediate vicinity of immense beds of the best quality of iron ore, with an extensive establishment already prepared for their reduction. In consideration of this fact, it becomes entirely the best point on the Pacific coast for the establishment of rolling mills. Moreover, as a water power, it would possess the rare advantages of being regular, unfailing, and unobstructed from any cause at any season, while the mills and factories driven by it would remain always entirely safe from destruction or injury by floods; being at the same time directly accessible to every market by unobstructed water communication. Favored with such advantages as these, there cannot arise a reasonable doubt but that all the water afforded by the canal will be quickly utilized."

OUR VISITORS.

THE GATHERING LAST EVENING AT THE COURT-HOUSE—ADDRESSES BY HONS. JOHN A. BINGHAM AND HORACE MAYNARD, AND BY JUSTICE MILLER OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Last evening the Court-house was densely crowded in anticipation of speeches announced to be forthcoming from Hon. John A. Bingham of Ohio, and other distinguished gentlemen now visiting our State. Senator Corbett presented Mr. Bingham to the audience. The speaker began with some highly eulogistic and encouraging remarks about our State, portions of which he has just traveled over. From this he proceeded to sketch the wonderful growth of our country and its great capabilities for future development. Nations of the Old World, he said, had been growing and developing for a thousand years. That period had elapsed since Alfred gave laws to England; since Charlemagne wore the iron crown; since the mighty nation of the North of Europe laid its foundations. But here equal or even greater results had been wrought out almost within the compass of the lives of men still living. It is a miracle; a miracle unequalled in the history of mankind. But these great results have not been accomplished without toil and sacrifice and blood. We have government here instituted for the people and by the people. Our idea is that government was made for man, not man for government. In one section of our country State authority was set up over the rights of a portion of the people and over the authority of the nation. To combat and overthrow this attempt the people cheerfully went forth to battle. After an arduous struggle they beat down this pretended authority and re-established the supremacy of the laws. And hereafter it is to be hoped that no State will attempt to set up an authority in opposition to human rights or the authority of the nation. The general results of the struggle were secured by being carried into the Constitution in the form of the recent amendments. A party in 1868 pronounced them "revolutionary and void." Taught, however, by the voice of the people in that year, and also by the same voice in 1869 and 1870, that party now proposes to quit its former position and admits that these amendments, the results of the national struggle, are "accomplished facts." Each amendment, they say, is a fact, but they do not say it is a law. That utterance is necessary to make the acceptance complete and to do away with future danger. Let this party frankly and fully accept the change both as fact and as law, and the "era of good feeling" in politics may come again. Then all parties may be one party. The great want of our whole country, the speaker said, was productive labor. There are boundless possibilities before us. In order to realize them and to assure to every man his rights of person and of property, protection for the results of his labor, whether of his brain or his heart or his hands, we must work out our political destiny, support our nationality and maintain our laws. The speaker closed in an eloquent peroration in which the urgency and necessity of maintaining our laws was strongly and beautifully enforced. The address, on the whole, was an able and intellectual effort. It was upon a much higher plane than that of common partisan speeches, and was received with great satisfaction by the audience.

Mr. Maynard, of Tennessee, being called for responded in a happy speech. He spoke in very complimentary terms of Oregon, a considerable portion of which he had recently seen. No description of the Wallamet valley which he had ever met had done justice to its beauty, its resources, and its situation. He foresaw a State here which would equal the greatest at the East; he saw already here a degree of growth and of culture highly flattering to the State and its people, and presaging the greatest things for the future.

Justice Miller on being called upon said that it was a rule with him, occupying as he did a judicial position, to refrain from talking at meetings which had anything to do with politics; and on this occasion he would only speak to corroborate what his friend Maynard had said in regard to the beautiful valley of Wallamet and the kind treatment he had received while in Oregon. Had he gone away without seeing this valley he would have had a very inadequate idea of our State. Here was a region surpassing in loveliness everything he had yet seen; it appeared like a realization of the happy valley of Rasselas and the dreams of the early writers. Such a country, when it becomes traversed by railroads, and accessible by the outer world, must become very famous, and he was sure would become very prosperous and great. At the conclusion of Justice Miller's remarks the assembly dispersed.

THE DAIRY NUISANCE.

PORTLAND, July 17, 1871.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

SIR: At the last meeting of the Common Council a petition of several citizens of Portland was read praying that some steps be taken to suppress a dairy, which the petitioners state is a nuisance to them. This petition, I, believe, was simply placed on file without further notice being taken of it. Whether under the rules and usages of the Council it will ever be referred to again, I am not sufficiently familiar with those rules and usages to state.

I am one of the very many people in Portland who have felt for some time that this dairy nuisance ought to receive some attention; and I hoped when this petition was presented that it would not only to the abatement of the particular nuisance complained of, but also to the suppression of the entire business of dairies within the city. These establishments are nuisances of a character to affect the health as well as the comfort of persons residing in this vicinity,—not only breeding swarms of flies and rats, and filling the streets and sidewalks with filth, but emitting continually such a stench of fermenting slops, malt and putrifaction, as to render the dwellings in their neighborhood all but untenantable.

If any member of our Common Council thinks this a trifling matter, let him go and spend a day and night within a block or two of one of these places, and he will change his mind. Decency requires that these "milk ranches" should get out of the city. There are several of them that demand attention.

Midsummer Maladies.

The hot solar rays that ripen the harvests generate many distressing diseases. If the liver be at all predisposed to irregularities, this is the season in which bilious attacks may be anticipated. A weak stomach, too, is weakest in the summer months, and the loss of vitality through the pores by excessive perspiration is so great, that a wholesome tonic, combining also the properties of a diffusive stimulant, is in many cases necessary to health, and under no circumstances should be dispensed with by the sickly and debilitated. Of all the preparations intended thus to refresh, sustain and fortify the human frame there is none that will compare with Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters. They have been weighed in the balance of experience and not found wanting, having been recommended from the first as a great medicinal specific, not as a beverage, and in spite of interested opposition from innumerable quarters, stand, after a twenty years' trial, at the head of all proprietary medicines intended for the prevention and cure of all ordinary complaints of the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the nerves. In the unhealthy districts bordering the great rivers of the South and West, Hostetter's Bitters may be classed as the standard one for every species of intermittent or remittent fever. The people who inhabit these districts, place the most implicit confidence in the preparation—a confidence that is increased every year by the results of its operation.

As bitters, so called, of the most pernicious character, are springing up like fungi on every side, the public is hereby forewarned against the dram-shop frauds. Ask for Hostetter's Bitters, see that the label, etc., are correct, and remember that the genuine article is never sold in bulk, but in bottles only.

WEDNESDAY MORNING JULY 19, 1871.

CITY.

ASTORIA ITEMS —From our Astoria correspondent under date, Astoria, July 17, 1871

The Military Department has let a contract for a wharf at the cozy little bay at Cape Disappointment. The wharf will be completed this

The United States Lighthouse authorities are going to build a new and commodious dwelling house for the light keeper at the same point The house is to cost about $10 000 A part of the material for building is on the bark Whistler, en route from San Francisco

The Government wharf at Fort Stevens has been enlarged this summer, and is now the largest wharf in the State

Mr Holman will soon have to suspend work on the Custom House, having almost expended the diminutive sum appropriated by last Congress. It may be economy for Government to do a job piecemeal, but business men never adopt that plan. What Solomon is it that runs this three cent arrangement?

The Arrigoni kept hotel in Portland, some one remarked that he fed his guests chiefly on sugar and napkin" Here, the reverse of that is nearly true. He has but one waiter to attend to the wants of scores of hungry mouths. Consequently your patience is quite exhausted before you get anything to eat, and when you do get it, it is cold. His table is bountifully supplied, but we would suggest a change of cooks, and the employment of at least two more good table waiters.

THE DIVORCE CASE —On Monday morning we noticed the case of Nicholas Gregovich, who came from California in search of a divorced wife who had spirited away a child, the custody of which the divorcing court had decreed to him. It appears the woman had got possession and cleared out for this city Gregovich got into trouble through an attempt to take the child by force and without legal process Failing out of that, he petitioned Judge Upton for a writ of habeas corpus, but the petition was on Monday, dismissed Gregovich then petitioned Judge Deady, of the U S District Court, and the matter was heard before him yesterday Gregovich, presenting the proper proofs was awarded the custody of the child. The delivery of the child to the father occasioned a scene rarely witnessed in our courts The woman clung to the child and the delivery to the father was only effected by the authority of the U S Marshal, mother and child both crying and "taking on" frantically It was a scene to move the heart of the most obdurate and passionless of spectators.

NEW ROADWAY —Yesterday the steamer brought down from the Oregon City mills, heavy fir timbers which, we learn, are to be used in the construction of a roadway at the foot of A street leading from Front street down to the upper story of the P T Co's wharf Hitherto the company has received and discharged freight by way of Gunn and Flanders' wharf and the B street ferry. They have now, however, resolved to build a roadway on A street which will be a great convenience, not only to them, but to the traveling public, as it will save the travel over the full two sides of a block, in reaching their wharf from up town. Foot passengers to and from the dock will especially reap benefit by this improvement. The new roadway will be twelve feet wide, leaving eighteen feet of the roadway leading to the upper story of the wharf. The work is to be commenced ly

STEAMER WRECKED —The O S. N Co has received news of the sinking and probable loss of the steamer Owyhee, their boat plying on the Columbia and Snake rivers from Wallula to Lewiston. The boat struck a sunken rock, on Monday morning, and now lies stern down, only her bow out of water She had at the time of the accident a cargo of merchandise for Lewiston, and several passengers for various points on the route. The passengers were all rescued, and most of the cargo was saved, through the assistance of a ferry boat, plying near by The boat was in charge of Captain Stump, an experienced steamboat man and pilot. The passengers who left on Saturday morning last, for the upper Columbia, were on board of her This mishap probably ends the steamboating season, so far as the Snake river is concerned.

SERVICES AT THE SEASIDE —Bishop Morris officiated in Grace Church, Astoria, on Sunday the 16th, morning and evening, and administered the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation He also gave notice that the Bishop would hold service at Clatsop on Sunday the 23d, at Bay on the 30th; and at Ft Stevens Sunday in August. Week night services will be held by the Bishop at Cape Disappointment and Cementville

SUMMER RESORT —While people are going from the city for the seaside, returning from labor, and reinvigorated health, there are many, also, as we learn, going to the Soda Springs of Clackamas county Mr Gaines, the lessee of the hotel at that place came down to this city yesterday, and he informs us that his house is constantly full, while many are camping out.

RESIGNATION AND APPOINTMENT —Mr. J H who has a more decided talent for running than the police establishment of a city, resigned the office of Police Commissioner ago, and we learn that the Governor has appointed in his place Mr John A Bianchi "How is that for high," from the Odd Fellows' stand point?

"VILLS"—When the bark Goodell arrived everybody was puzzled to know what was meant by "vills," an article mentioned in her manifest. Finally, the matter was explained—the vills came out in the shape of large square, slack-burned bricks, made evidently for garden and other pavements.

FIRE ALARM —The department was called out yesterday forenoon by a fire alarm from a house occupied by Mr Wolf on Sixth street. A few buckets of water, however, quenched the fire (in the roof next to a flue) before the engines got into play.

NEW TRIAL.—The motion for a new trial in the case of J L. Cummings, convicted of obstructing the U S mails, will be heard in the U S District Court to-day

TO SALEM —J J Smith, sentenced to the penitentiary for one year, for selling liquor to the Indians, was sent to Salem Monday afternoon

CAMPMEETING —A Methodist campmeeting will begin next Friday at the Clackamas Soda Springs

PERSONAL

Gov Woods has hardly warmed his Gubernatorial seat in Utah, before a row between the Mormon dignitaries and the judiciary, took him off to Washington, where he arrived about the 20th

Messrs Maynard and Bingham and Judge Miller, accompanied by Senator Corbett and other gentlemen and ladies of this city, went up on the O & C Railroad on Monday, returning yesterday

The Washington correspondent of the State Journal says It is stated that about the 1st of July a party of newspaper men will leave St Paul, Minn, for a trip overland along the route of the Northern Pacific Railroad to Oregon and Washington Territory Among the party are White, of the Chicago Tribune, who has twice visited Oregon before with the "Colfax party," Whitelaw Reid, managing editor of the New York Tribune; Mr Hurlburt, of the World H J Raymond, Jr, of the Times; Mr Hazard, of the Post and Harper's Magazine, and one of the editors of the Evening Post They are to have a military escort

A letter from R M Swain Napa, Cal, states that a man named Geo W Johnston, formerly of Portland, Oregon, but originally from Albany, N Y, was killed at Yountville in Napa county, a few days ago, by being thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team It is said that he had relatives (probably a sister) in this city, who can obtain further information by addressing G S Burrage, Yountville, Napa county, Cal

It is said that the reception which Col Kelly is receiving among the Oregon Democracy, since his announcement by the Herald that he has "declined," is very cold "Live" Democrats are dissatisfied, and at every town the Colonel and Senator, it is said, receives an offer of an immense amount of cold shoulder

THE TUALATIN-OSWEGO CANAL

THE EXTENT OF THE ENTERPRISE—BREAKING OF GROUND—AN IMMENSE WATER POWER TO BE OBTAINED

Yesterday morning, by invitation of the President of the Tualatin River Navigation and Manufacturing Co, ex Governor George L Curry, we accompanied him and several gentlemen connected with the company to Oswego, thence by way of Oswego Lake and the old wooden track railway to the Colfax landing on the bank of the Tualatin The object of the trip was to break ground for the canal which the company is about to dig, and by which the Tualatin river is to be drained of a portion of its water to supply motive power at Oswego The lake has its outlet at Oswego the foot of the lake being a little more than an eighth of a mile from the west bank of the Wallamet, by way of the outlet stream The latter falls near the foot of the lake and within a distance of three or four hundred feet, about ninety feet over basaltic rocks to the level of the Wallamet This fall, when the supply of water discharging from the lake shall be increased as contemplated, will afford a series of magnificent water powers, in many essential respects of unequalled conveniences and advantages. The lake extends from this fall westward toward the Tualatin river about two and three quarter miles The rest of the intervening distance—between the head of the lake and Colfax on the Tualatin—is a low swale, through which runs a small stream having its source within a 780 feet of the bank of the Tualatin, and which falls into Oswego Lake at its head The enterprise inaugurated yesterday contemplates the uniting of the waters of the river and lake by a canal—a mere means of water supply at first, but eventually to be cut wide and deep enough to admit the passage of the small steamers which the company now have in the river and the lake

THE CANAL

The surveys of the Co's civil engineer show that the Tualatin river at Colfax is 22 feet higher than the water in the lake The highest ground —measured from the level of the river—between the river and the lake, is only thirteen feet It is proposed to cut the canal about four feet wide on the bottom and two feet deeper than the present surface of the water in the river Immediately on the bank, this cut will be fourteen feet deep At the distance of about 300 feet from the river occurs the deepest cut, 15 feet Three or four hundred feet further on toward the lake the cut will be only eight or nine feet and then it grows rapidly less The extreme length of the cut necessary to be made to run four feet of water through the canal to the lake is only one mile and one-third A much shorter distance will suffice to run water of one or two feet in depth but the company proposes to go, at first to the depth necessary to make the canal navigable for boats when the whole scheme shall have been accomplished At the head of the canal say within two or three hundred feet of the river, a break water or head gate will be put in, to be used as a regulator of the supply of water Somewhere between this and the lake a single lock will be constructed, to aid in the passage of boats It is believed by the engineer and others who have examined the ground, that when water shall be once turned freely through the canal with the fall of 22 feet, the current will very soon complete all the excavations necessary to allow the passage of boats

DAM AT THE FOOT OF THE LAKE

It might be supposed that such a current as will be given by a fall of nearly 16 feet to the mile would destroy the possibilities of navigation and endanger the entire diversion of the river from its own channel to the Oswego Lake But it is a part of the whole scheme to raise a dam across the outlet stream at the foot of the lake at least 18 or 20 feet high. This can be done at comparatively small cost, as the outlet is narrow, with solid rock bottom and sides The dam when closed will back the water of the lake nearly to the level of the Tualatin river and by opening or closing its waste gates, the current of the canal can be regulated at pleasure. The head gate and lock can also be used for the same purpose It will thus be seen that the immense water power will be at all times under perfect easy control

BREAKING GROUND

The company having rested themselves on board the steamer Onward after a smart walk from the lake along the proposed line to the river, proceeded to "break ground." The President stated that the company was organized March 23d, 1869, and then gave some details of its subsequent history—what it had done, and what it was now able and about to do, touched upon the importance of the enterprise not only to the Company, but as it might possibly affect many public interests in the future, by opening a new channel of transportation and concluded by stating the principal physical facts connected with the enterprise, and then threw the traditional few spade fulls of dirt from the middle of the proposed line of canal He was followed in this exercise by Captain Joseph Kellogg, the OREGONIAN Reporter, Mr T. Patterson of the Herald Mr Lewis Love, Mr. Jonathan Jackson, and Mr W S Failing, the latter the Secretary of the Company The excursionists having seen the work begun, started for home, by way of Oswego, and by steamer Senator, for Portland

The work will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible to completion, it being the intention of the company to have the dam built, the canal dug, and all other necessary work performed during the season of low water in the river and lake.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE WORK

The canal when completed, will open a line of water communication with the interior westward for a distance of some sixty miles affording excellent facilities to the people of Yamhill and Washington counties, adjacent thereto, for the transportation of their surplus products to the Portland markets The company has a steam boat on the Lake and also one on the Tualatin, and will be ready to supply the wants of the community in that locality in the matter of transportation Apart from the business of navigation, the improvement now undertaken will furnish an abundant and unfailing water power for the manufacturing operations of the Company at Oswego, where they own a tract of two hundred acres of land including the town of Oswego The Company's saw mill at that point will commence running next week in the manufacture of lumber, for which the timber lands of the Tualatin will afford an almost endless supply for all the most desirable varieties The subjoined extracts from the report of the Engineer on the work will give a fair idea of the importance and value of the enterprise

"Although not especially instructed to do so, I presume that it will not be inappropriate or unacceptable if I offer some estimates and suggestions relative to the available value of the proposed improvements when fully completed At this time there cannot be any particular computation of their cash value as a means of transportation But when it is considered that they will render accessible to the market afforded by the city of Portland, very large bodies of timber, consisting of all the varieties common to the country, hitherto unavailable, and as yet scarcely touched by the woodman's axe, that they will extend water carriage of such facility as to preclude all competition by rail in moving heavy products, directly to the center of one of the largest and most productive sections of the Wallamet valley that the first cost of the works will be a comparatively insignificant sum, and that when once completed they can be maintained indefinitely by a very small outlay for attendance or repairs the profits for this source alone must eventually become large With regard to the motive power which they will develop we may reach some more definite conclusions * * There may be drawn from the Tualatin river at the lowest stage, a volume of water equal to the full capacity of the canal, at a rate of half a mile an hour This would yield at Oswego a discharge of seventy three cubic feet of water every second with an average of one hundred feet through the entire year * * This will produce nominally eight hundred and thirty three horse powers * * This when compared with an equivalent of power which might be maintained through the agency of steam with which it would come directly in competition under circumstances equally advantageous for the purposes of manufacture at a low estimate would be worth two hundred dollars each day Allowing three hundred working days in each year it would produce an annual income of sixty thousand dollars at ten per cent. per annum * * For several years it would hold superior advantages in the manufacture of lumber for the Portland market For all time to come it would hold unrivaled advantages in the manufacture of flour from the wheat grown in the extensive region of country which must unavoidably become tributary to the Oswego canal while it would remain fully equal in point of location with any other place in the general manufacture of that staple article grown in other parts of the Wallamet valley What I have stated concerning wheat will apply with nearly the same appropriateness to the wool product Then it will be in the immediate vicinity of immense beds of the best quality of iron ore, with an extensive establishment already prepared for their reduction In consideration of this fact it becomes entirely the best point on the Pacific coast for the establishment of rolling mills Moreover, as a water power, it would possess the rare advantages of being regular, unfailing, and unobstructed from any cause at any season, while the mills and factories driven by it would remain always entirely safe from destruction or injury by floods being at the same time directly accessible to every market by unobstructed water communication Favored with such advantages as these, there cannot arise a reasonable doubt but that all the water afforded by the canal will be quickly utilized"

OUR VISITORS.

THE GATHERING LAST EVENING AT THE COURT HOUSE—ADDRESSES BY HONS JOHN A BINGHAM AND HORACE MAYNARD AND BY JUSTICE MILLER OF THE SUPREME COURT

Last evening the Court house was densely crowded in anticipation of the speeches announced to be forthcoming from Hon John A Bingham of Ohio and other distinguished gentlemen now visiting our State Senator Corbett presented Mr Bingham to the audience The speaker began with some highly eulogistic and encouraging remarks about our State, portions of which he has just traveled over From this he proceeded to sketch the wonderful growth of our country and its great capabilities for future development Nations of the Old World, he said, had been growing and developing for a thousand years That period had elapsed since Alfred gave laws to England since Charlemagne wore the iron crown since the mighty nation of the North of Europe laid its foundations But here equal or even greater results had been wrought out almost within the compass of the lives of men still living It is a miracle, a miracle unequalled in the history of mankind But these great results have not been accomplished without toil and sacrifice and blood We have government here instituted for the people and by the people Our idea is that government was made for man, not man for government In one section of our country State authority was set up over the rights of a portion of the people and over the authority of the nation To combat and overthrow this attempt the people cheerfully went forth to battle After an arduous struggle they beat down this pretended authority and re-established the supremacy of the laws And hereafter it is to be hoped that no State will attempt to set up an authority in opposition to human rights or the authority of the nation The general results of the struggle were secured by being carried into the Constitution in the form of the recent amendments A party in 1868 pronounced them 'revolutionary and void' Taught however by the voice of the people in that year and also by the same voice in 1869 and 1870 that party now proposes to quit its former position and admits that these amendments, the results of the national struggle, are 'accomplished facts Each amendment they say, is a fact, but they do not say it is a law That utterance is necessary to make the acceptance complete and to do away with future danger Let this party frankly and fully accept the change both as fact and as law and the 'era of good feeling' in politics may come again Then all parties may be one party The great want of our whole country, the speaker said was productive labor. There are boundless possibilities before us In order to realize them and to assure to every man his rights of person and of property, protection for the results of his labor whether of his brain or his heart or his hands we must work out our political destiny support our nationality and maintain our laws The speaker closed in an eloquent peroration in which the urgency and necessity of maintaining our laws was strongly and beautifully enforced The address on the whole, was an able and intellectual effort It was upon a much higher plane than that of common partisan speeches and was received with great satisfaction by the audience

Mr Maynard of Tennessee being called for responded in a happy speech He spoke in very complimentary terms of Oregon, a considerable portion of which he had recently seen No description of the Wallamet valley which he had ever met had done justice to its beauty, its resources, and its situation He foresaw a State here which would equal the greatest at the East, he saw already here a degree of growth and of culture highly flattering to the State and its people and presaging the greatest things for the future

Justice Miller on being called upon said that it was a rule with him, occupying as he did a judicial position, to refrain from talking at meetings which had anything to do with politics, and on this occasion he would only speak to corroborate what his friend Maynard had said in regard to the beautiful valley of Wallamet and the kind treatment he had received while in Oregon Had he gone away without seeing this valley he would have had a very inadequate idea of our State Here was a region surpassing in loveliness every thing he had yet seen, It appeared like a realization of the happy valley of Rasselas and the dreams of the early writers Such a country when it becomes traversed by railroads, and accessible by the outer world, must become very famous and he was sure would become very prosperous and great At the conclusion of Justice Miller's remarks the assembly dispersed

PORTLAND, July 17, 1871

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

SIR At the last meeting of the Common Council a petition of several citizens of Portland was read praying that some steps be taken to suppress a dairy, which the petitioners state is a nuisance to them This petition, I believe, was simply placed on file without further notice being taken of it Whether under the rules and usages of the Council it will ever be referred to again I am not sufficiently familiar with those rules and usages to state.

I am one of the very many people in Portland who have felt for some time that this dairy nuisance ought to receive some attention and I hoped when this petition was presented that it would not only to the abatement of the particular nuisance complained of, but also to the suppression of the entire business of dairies within the city These establishments are nuisances of a character to affect the health as well as the comfort of persons residing in this vicinity,—not only breeding swarms of flies and rats and filling the streets and sidewalks with filth, but emitting continually such a stench of fermenting slops, malt and putrifaction, as to render the dwellings in their neighborhood all but uninhabitable

If any member of our Common Council thinks this a trifling matter let him go and spend a day and night within a block or two of one of these places and he will change his mind Decency requires that these "milk ranches" should get out of the city There are several of them that demand attention

The hot solar rays that ripen the harvests generate many distressing diseases If the liver be at all predisposed to irregularities this is the season in which bilious attacks may be anticipated A weak stomach, too is weakest in the summer months, and the loss of vitality through the pores by excessive perspiration is so great that a wholesome tonic combining, also the properties of a diffusive stimulant is in many cases necessary to health and under no circumstances should be dispensed with by the sickly and debilitated Of all the preparations intended thus to refresh sustain and fortify the human frame there is none that will compare with Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters They have been weighed in the balance of experience and not found wanting having been recommended from the first as a great medicinal specific not as a beverage and in spite of interested opposition from innumerable quarters stand after twenty years at the head of all proprietary medicines intended for the prevention and cure of all ordinary complaints of the stomach the liver the bowels and the nerves In the unhealthy districts bordering, the great rivers of the South and West Hostetter's Bitters may be classed as the standard one for every species of intermittent or remittent fever The people who inhabit those districts yield their utmost implicit confidence in the preparation—considering that are evidently very aptly the results of its operation

A Heroine

H[illegible] name sh[illegible]nes not on bannered field,
Where right and wrong so boldly war,
N[illegible] rings her voice in any cause
Which men and women battle for;
Yet in her presence subtle sweet,
You long to kneel and kiss her feet

No wondrous romance wreathes her life,
Nor has she led a martyr train;
Nor beautiful nor rich is she,
But poor and—some would call her—plain,
Yet in her two dear eyes you see
A beauty shining constantly.

No silken robe enfolds her form,
Nor dainty leisure hath her hands;
Her jewels are a simple ring;
A ribbon binds her hair's soft bands
Yet in her garment a simple grace
Her soul's regality you trace

No gift hath she to charm and thrill
A thankless world with [illegible] song
And art that wakes the ivory keys,
To other hands than hers belongs;
Yet in her words of tender cheer
Another music meets the ear

She walks in humble ways of life
The road oftimes through gloom and shade,
And cares and crosses, not a few,
Are on her patient shoulders laid,
Yet smiles and drinks each bitter cup,
And keeps her brave eyes lifted up.

And homely ways she wreathes with grace,
Harsh duty turns to loving zeal,
And cheery hope and steadfast will,
Are at her side in work and rest;
Yet never dreams she that you spy
The angel looking from her eye

Indianapolis Water Works

The introduction of the Holly water works into the capital of Indiana, and the effects produced thereby are thus sketched by a correspondent of the Terre Haute Express

[illegible] visited Indianapolis recently. As I turned [illegible] Meridian street, on my way up town, I [illegible] an acquaintance and instantly remarked [illegible] thing in his manner that was new to me, [illegible] elated important air that seemed a queer [illegible] of conscious superiority and obliging [illegible]scension

[illegible] extraordinary thing has happened to him [illegible] said to myself, perhaps he has [illegible] suddenly rich by the death of a [illegible] received a government appointment [illegible] may be—but no! he has too many [illegible] already, it can't be "a boy"

[illegible] out my hand He took it in a pat[illegible] kind of way that would have been offensive [illegible] any one else, and asked me when [illegible] had arrived

[illegible] I told him

[illegible] then you haven't [illegible] them yet?"

[illegible] was on the [illegible]

[illegible] it's [illegible]

[illegible] what?

His impatient [illegible] emphatic reply "Why the Water Works, [illegible] over me that I could [illegible] shake my head and feebly inquire what was the matter with them

Matter They're going!"

[illegible] they When?"

"Now now!" he answered excitedly, "you [illegible] come right away. Come! I'll go [illegible]

[illegible] they'll be gone before we can get [illegible] spot," I ventured to suggest

It was a wretched joke, but who could have seen the melancholy result

An expression of the most intense disgust [illegible] all his features he dropped my hand [illegible] walked away without another word I [illegible] in the afternoon, but he passed me without speaking

Things were clearer to me after I had walked around the city a little while.

The fact is Indianapolis has "water-works" on the brain but it is hoped, that its sanity will not [illegible] permanently affected

At present, the means for squirting water pervades all [illegible], and a man's standing in society is regulated by the length of his hose.

[illegible] man was pointed out who three short weeks ago was living in unknown obscurity. He was ambitious and to-day his name is in all men's mouths Proudly he stands on the very pinnacle of Fame, and points the nozzle of a hose eight feet longer than any other in town, those belonging to the Fire Department not excepted

Everybody has a hose. Not to have one, is a detriment to a man's reputation, and respectable people shun him

Business houses are closed an hour earlier now in order that proprietors and employes may have more time for hose exercise in the evening and it is a beautiful sight, as the sun is sinking behind the western housetops, to see in every yard the entire length of the street the honored head of the family, a serene and happy expression on his face, surrounded by his admiring wife and children, pointing a dripping nozzle up on the house, up in the trees into the air, into the shrubbery into his neighbors' yard, out in the street into passing carriages, and then to see him tenderly place it in the hands of his children one after another, and his wife, and [illegible] note by the sparkle of their eyes the thrills of pleasure it gives them.

Ladies have been known to faint with ecstacy upon first trying it, so delightful is the sense of [illegible] of holding the nozzle.

As I [illegible] along, an aged man was borne out of the house his arm chair set in the yard and a nozzle placed in his hand.

I shall never forget the heavenly expression of that patriarch's face as his trembling hand turned it full against my shirt bosom He held it till his strength gave out, and the with a "suffer now thy servant-to-depart-in peace" air resigned it to his great grandson, and was carried back into the house to die

They don't play croquet in Indianapolis any more The water works have annihilated [illegible] base ball, billiards and all that. Hose Recreation is the thing now.

I shall visit Indianapolis again when they get [illegible] charging for the water, which they [illegible] do now, and I have a presentiment that [illegible] amusement, 'Hose Recreation' will not be so popular.

JINSON JONSON.

AMERICAN EXTRAVAGANCE — In every portion [illegible] of Europe Americans have the name of [illegible] the most extravagant people in the world [illegible] opulence and Russian magnificence [illegible] paled in the presence of republican [illegible] Every great continental city [illegible] incident to relate which illustrates American [illegible]ness. An incident was recently mentioned in a lace house in Paris which has become historical. The proprietor [illegible] a photograph hung on his wall. He remarked "That is the picture [illegible] of the [illegible] lace purchased by [illegible] daughter of Chief Justice Chase and wife of Senator Sprague" It is understood [illegible] the finest point lace ever made The Queen of England and the Empress of [illegible] considered it too expensive, but the wife of an American Senator did not hesitate [illegible] $15 000 in gold for six and a half yards [illegible] a woman of such artistic notions [illegible] in Paris The Western [illegible] particularly the Californians, are [illegible] most lavish in the use of [illegible] Two of the fair sex from San [illegible] ordered eighty five dresses [illegible] the agent an American, was astonished [illegible] order but it was faithfully executed [illegible] such evidences of American lavishness [illegible] not surprising that the Russians and the English have become secondary to the Americans in all the marts of fashion.

POLITICAL Notes.

The last new name for the "new departure" is "Mulatto Democrats" They have been so dubbed by that able and influential Democratic ex Mayor, Richard Vaux, of Philadelphia

The New York Journal of Commerce, a standard Democratic journal, has this The full text of the California Democratic Anti-Chinese resolution [illegible] It is worse than we had supposed it to be It is crammed with sophistries, [illegible], and unconstitutionalism The opening [illegible] are aimed at the negroes as much as the Chinese The former are a "class of inferior people," who fit in many other respects the description given of the Chinese, are they, too, to be frozen out of California? "Living costs coming at very nothing" to the Chinese. Is frugality [illegible] crime, to be punished by exile? The Chinese live cheaply because they do not indulge in the excessive use of liquor and high priced cigars and fancy clothing—because, however small their means they keep within their means. Surely it is audacious to call that virtue a crime which makes a man independent of the poorhouse, and saves him from being a beggar and an inmate of prisons and jails!

An old ladyread about the strike of the wire-drawers in Worcester, Mass, and said that of all the new fangled things, wire drawers must be the queerest

CURRENT NOTES

It is said to be the purpose of the Attorney General to appoint special assistant district attorneys in several of the Southern States, charged with the energetic and prompt enforcement of the Ku Klux bill.

Fifteen suits for twenty thousand dollars damages in each case have been commenced against a Jersey City newspaper The proprietor is delighted at the exalted estimate put upon the influence of his journal

At several places in the State of New York on the 13th inst salutes were fired in honor of Gov Hoffman for his action toward the New York rioters The Common Council of Rochester passed complimentary resolutions and sent them to the Governor.

The New York Times mentions a close observer who went about the city on the Fourth, counting the flags He reports that he saw in all over 40,000 American, 18,000 Prussian, and 6,000 other flags, the united length of which, allowing three feet to each, would give a total of 192 000 feet, or about forty miles

Thomas Francis of Albany, N Y, has just sustained his sixth conjugal bereavement His first wife killed herself, the second eloped to Illinois and died of destitution, the third was drowned, the fourth was killed and he convicted of the murder, but pardoned out of prison, his fifth mysteriously disappeared and the last has passed the bourne by suicide

A fact worthy of the notice of brandy drinkers appears in the recent statement of the Internal Revenue Bureau of the amount of spirits in the country There appears to be, in accordance with that statement, but 100 000 gallons of brandy distilled from fruits, while there is 161,000 gallons of compounded liquors made in imitation of brandies, and sold and drunk as the real old Cognac

A dispatch from New York states that Stephen Meany, one of the editors of the Irish American, appeared in behalf of some of the arrested rioters He said that most of these men were ignorant and poor, that for a week past they had been incited by a certain class to create this riot, and when they got into the trouble their leaders deserted so that under the circumstances he felt it to be his duty to offer his services Most of the prisoners who were discharged were severely reprimanded by the Judge, who cautioned them not hereafter to listen to their political leaders, who evidently cared nothing for them and only used them for their own purposes

Two of the chairs used in the Continental Congress, whilst it held its sessions in Independence Hall, have been returned to Philadelphia, through the instrumentality of Colonel Etting They were found at Harrisburg, where these two venerable relics, having been consolidated into one chair, were doing duty as the official seat of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the State Senate They are brought back to Philadelphia as a contribution and a stimulus towards the proposed restoration of the old Hall as nearly as practicable to its condition in 1776, instead of keeping it in its present condition as a sort of curiosity shop In a letter of Col Etting to the Chairman of the Centennial Committee he states that there is another of these chairs in the possession of his family, and still a fourth in the possession of the Philosophical Society
